Re: Chris Angello, Account Executive

To Whom It May Concern:

Recently, Pulaski Wesleyan Church purchased a Kyocera copy machine from Advanced Business Systems. Chris Angello was the salesman. Chris was very professional and knowledgeable in his presentation of the product. He stopped by several times, always with a cheerful smile and an offer to help out in anyway he could; he knew the church was pricing out other companies. This fact did not deter, irritate or hinder his willingness to hang in there with a smile, until we made an informed and final decision. We did end up purchasing from his company because we liked the copier, but also because of the quality way Chris presented himself and his company's servicing ability.

Since our purchase, Chris has been more than happy to answer any questions we have had. To date we have found Chris and ABS very pleasant and positive people to deal with. I would highly recommend him/them to do business with.

Sincerely,

Wanda Richardson
